

Emily Cash

July 2007 to January 2008

Pipe Installation and Surgery, Sharpie and paint, 2007

Emily Cash was born in Poplar Bluff, Missouri and raised in Raleigh, North Carolina. She earned her Bachelor of Art in Art from Meredith College and her Master of Fine Art from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She creates intricate pen and ink line drawings that comment on consumption and the human condition. The Indy Week has said of her work: “It's hard to tell if Cash is suggesting utopian or dystopian panoramas, or simply laying out the mindscape of the 21st century urbanite, or, most provocatively, all three.”
