January to July 2003

Crowd My Landscape, acrylic, gouache, paper, 35 x 20 x 12 feet

Lauren Adams was born in 1979 and grew up in Snow Hill, North Carolina. She earned her Bachelor of Fine Art in Art and Art History from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and her Master of Fine Art in Multimedia from Carnegie Mellon University. She works primarily in painting and drawing in the installation context, occasionally incorporating video and performance. Of her work, Adams states: “I am particularly drawn to representations that explore social and political struggles. My work has been said to ‘use culture against itself,’ highlighting the exhaustion of narratives in the contemporary global context.”
